March 8th

Bruce and Linda Britton took us on an informative trip to Vietnam through an engaging digital slideshow accompanied by an authentic music score. The pictorial essay displayed some of Bruce's 1300 images taken during their 2014 tour of Vietnam. The audiences were treated to the sights including: open air markets, traffic congestion, rice fields, and countryside and seascape scenery. Two of the highlights had to be the inside of a Buddhist monastery and the inside of a North Vietnamese home. The contrasts between North and South were evident. Although there was no envelope for Bruce and Linda at the conclusion of the presentation, the members showed their appreciation by an enthusiastic round of applause!

March 22

President Anthony opened the meeting and presented Mike McCann, a new member with his membership badge. The day was entitled Discovery Day and it was a day in which some members shared what is one of their hobbies or interests. The room was set up with a number of stations and we were divided into groups so that we could rotate from station to station. After about 10 minutes watching and learning about different hobbies and interests we rotated to the next station.

NUMBERS: Ray Williams and Barry McMahon had several number puzzles to try and solve. The only clue which we were given was to think outside the box. I was able to solve one but the other was really difficult until it was explained and then it was ooooh so easy.

WOOD CARVING: Bryan and Georgina Rose demonstrated their skill with carving wood. They had some lovely items which were intricately carved or in progress. It was interesting to hear the little tricks that they use to keep the patterns accurate.

GOLF: Gary Chadwick has loved golf for all of his life and he had a small putting green set up so that we could try out a small part of golf's game. Several members in my group were able to get in the hole in one putt.

MUSIC: Linda Popham took pleasure in demonstrating her new found skill with the ukulele. Glen Workman has played the coronet and trumpet in local bands for many years. He now plays drums. He demonstrated the valves and their uses.

ART: We have several artists in our group and a couple had works on display as well as works in progress. Joan Hayes, Janet Kershaw and Ruth Newington had paintings in oil, water and acrylics and others may have had work on display as well. Joan and Janet were working on current projects as we talked.
